

What is Food Insecurity or Food Poverty?

The inability to access affordable food, or the worry that you may be unable to do so.

Dr Sinéad Furey
Ulster University Business School
(UUBS)

The focus of my work:

Over 20 years' experience of working closely with a wide range of sectors / organisations to understand food poverty.

Measuring food poverty:

UUBS research (2018) reported 35% of respondents experienced at least one symptom of food poverty concerned with worry about running out of food or not eating enough.

Mapping:

Ulster University research* has mapped householders' access to food to understand the availability and affordability of food across Northern Ireland. * PhD research, McClelland et al 2021

At Risk of Food Poverty Index
Risk Score

Heat or eat?

UUBS research with people at risk of fuel poverty (2015) found:

41% unable to comfortably feed themselves and their families three meals per day all of the time.

31% forced to make a choice between food and other essentials

Other areas of work:

- Food poverty research to inform consultations and evidence submissions
- Food poverty during Covid-19
- Food insecurity among university students
- Food affordability post-EU Exit
- Food poverty and health inequalities

Listen to my podcast on food poverty

#WeAreUU Expert Podcast:
Food Poverty with Ulster's Dr Sinéad Furey

Read my research

Dr Sinéad Furey's publications

Email / Tweet me if I can support your food insecurity work:

✉ ms.furey@ulster.ac.uk 🐦 @DrSineadFurey #FoodPovertyUUBS